Throughout the world, size has no meaning

In a country as informative as ours, every bit of news no matter how large or small, is important. Whether it be world, nation-wide, or local news it is extremely important to the make-up of our society. Although some issues are more relevant to the nation as a whole, such as the energy crisis, the S.L.A. movement, impeachment of the President, and Hank Aaron breaking the home run record, local news is just as important to the people of the community. News, such as how the vicious tornadoes ripped parts of the Mid-West, and how we coped with the new 55 mph speed limit affected our daily lives.

The year 1974 brought many events which pertained to us as a part of the community and the nation; other events which affected us were the Arab terrorism . . . The Gatsby look . . . "The Sting" . . . "The Exorcist" . . . our local streakers . . .

Political kidnappings . . .

Kissinger . . .

Ecology movement . . .

Fuel shortage, higher gas prices . . .

Gerald Ford's Vice-Presidential appointment . . .

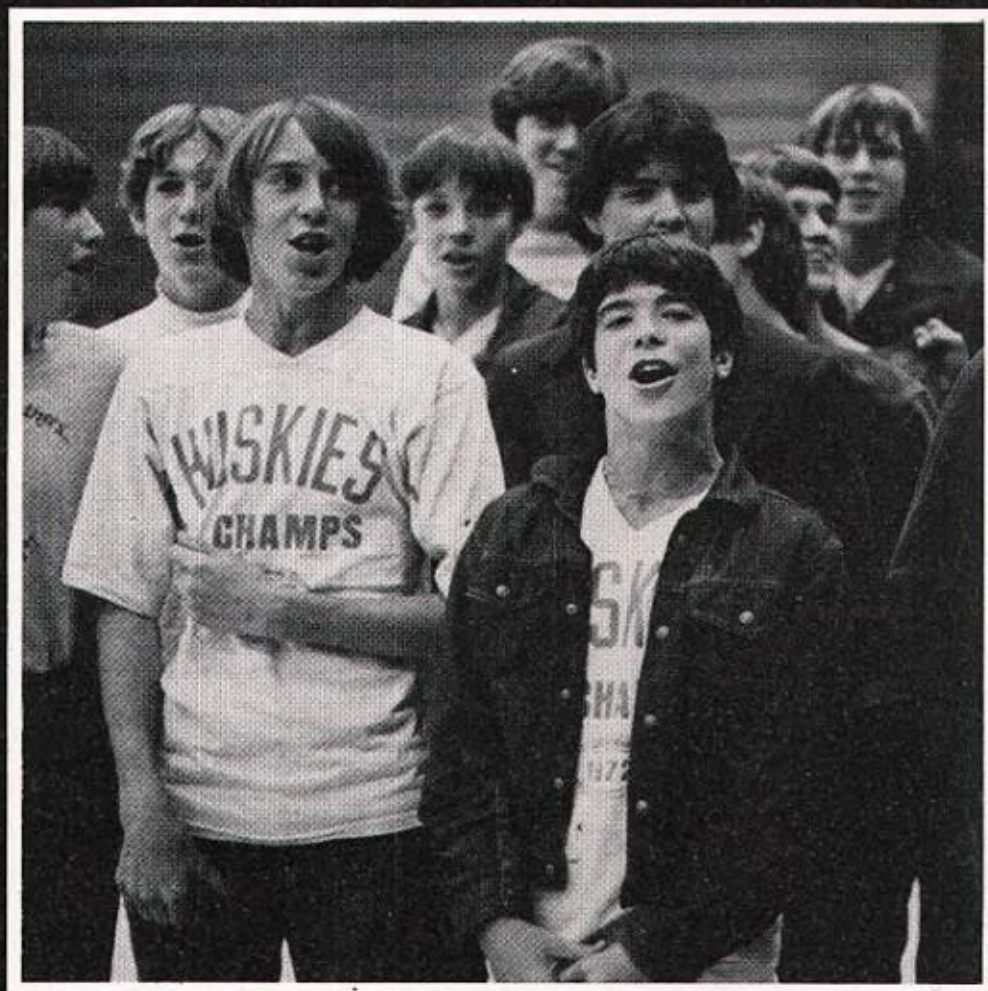

Resignation of Golda Meir . . .

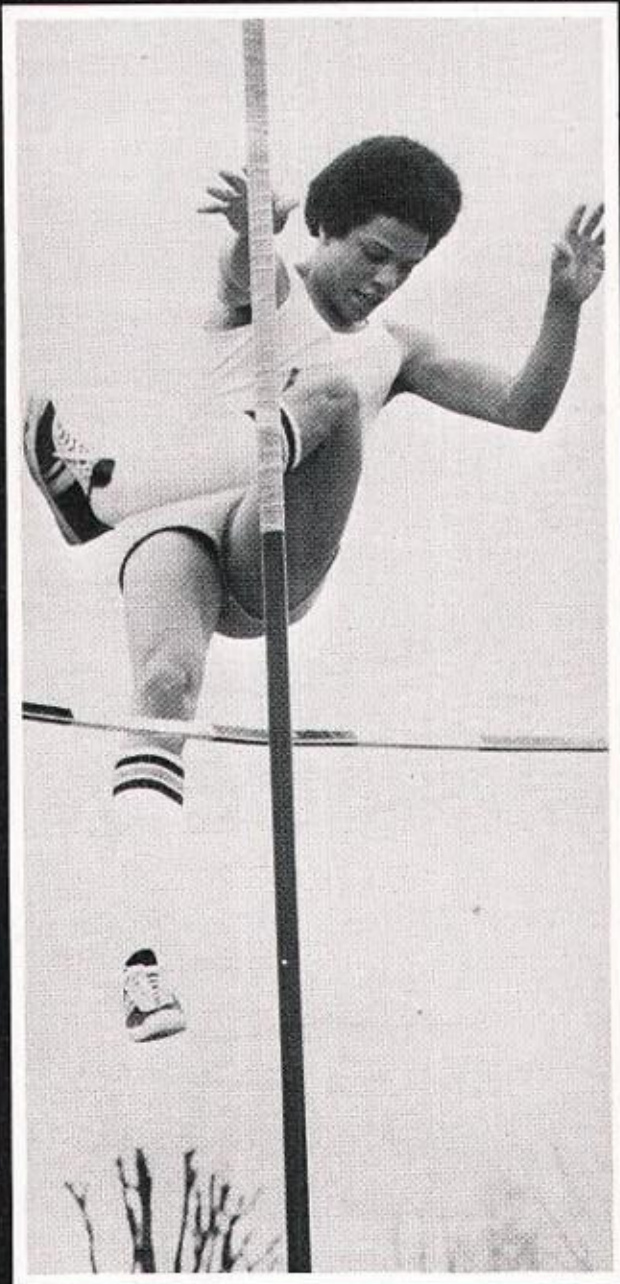

Lower speed limits . . .

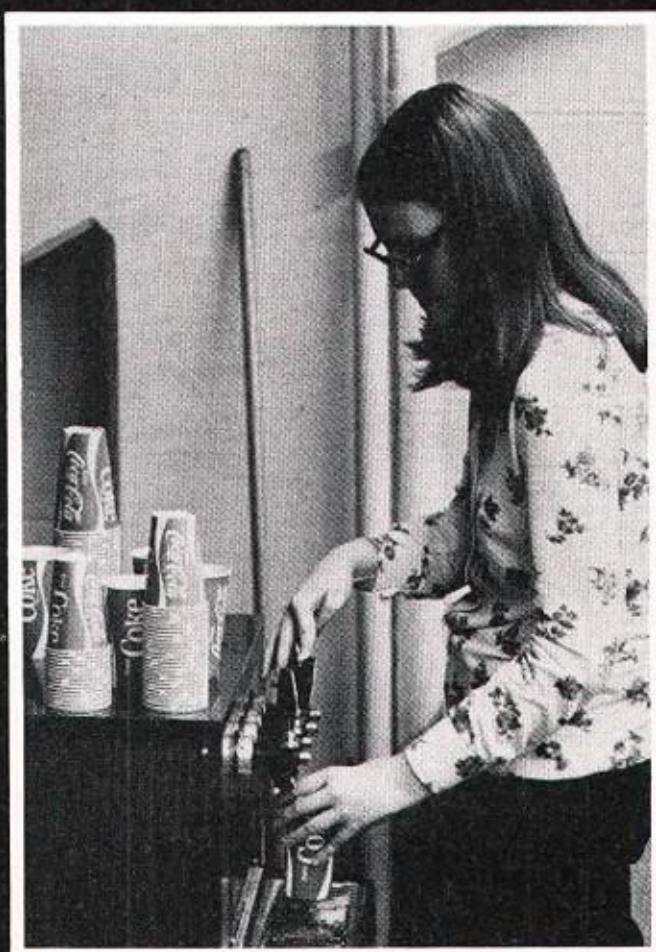

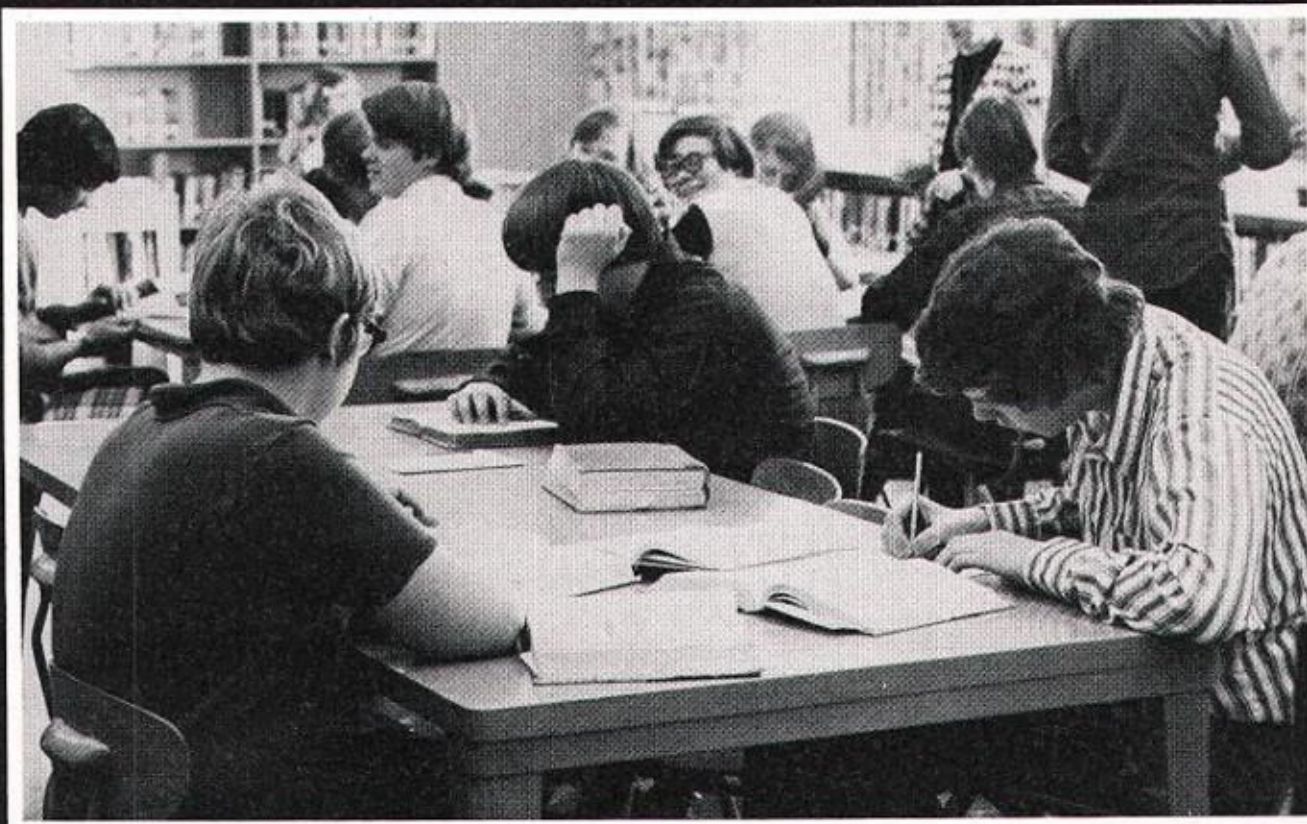

Talent, skill, and knowledge cannot be masked as luck or good fortune when a small group in a central Indiana high school prove themselves over and over again.

Having an enrollment of less than 600 students, a football team of less than 20 players (largest man only 180 lbs.), a basketball team small in number and height (one starter only 5'5"), a stranger might imagine a less than average, ho-hum high school.

Heights had a very good year and athletics only serves to demonstrate the abilities and achievements of a school small in number but boundless in potential.

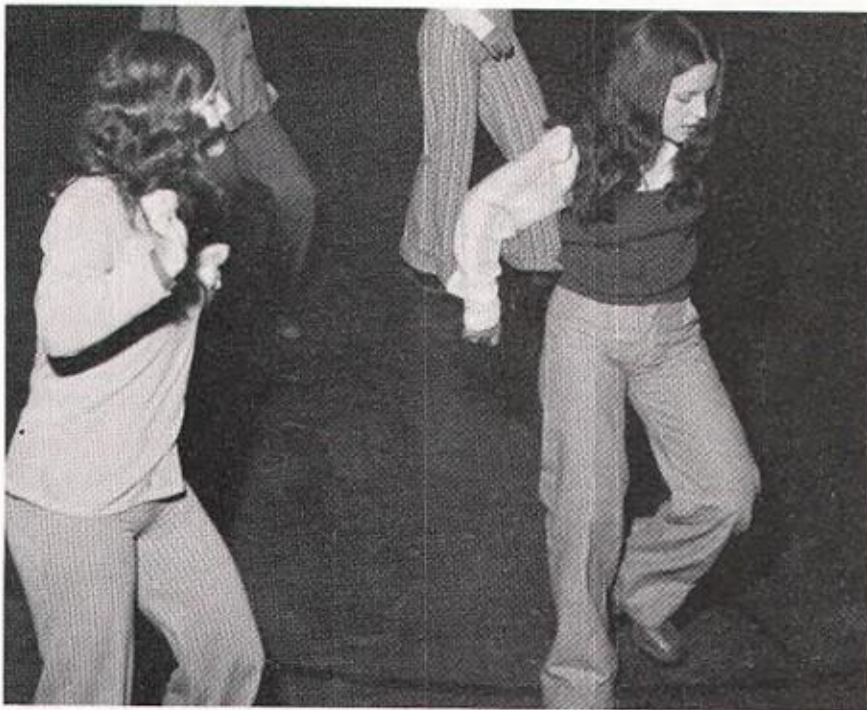

Flip through these pages and you will see size has no meaning and knowledge has no bounds in the world, in America, in the Midwest or in central Indiana.

"Spirits" flew during Halloween Homecoming

October 26, 1973, was a night of memories. For Diane Dunn it was a night filled with roses and kisses for the Homecoming queen. For the mighty Huskies it was the thrill of victory by beating Westfield by one point. For Mr. Huber and the coaching staff, the night held accomplishment and pride in a fine team, one which later went 9-0. For fans it was massive coronaries, tears, and "ra-ra for H.H. High." Not only memories but memorable events took place before and after Homecoming night. Before, there was: poster day, gay 50's, hat day, community pep rally and bonfire, Drama club skit and the traditional parade. After, there was: the float contest won by the freshmen, float burnings, and the Homecoming dance.

The night before Homecoming the Husky Cheerleaders arouse enthusiasm at traditional bonfire.

The 1974 Prom was held at Elwood Country Club

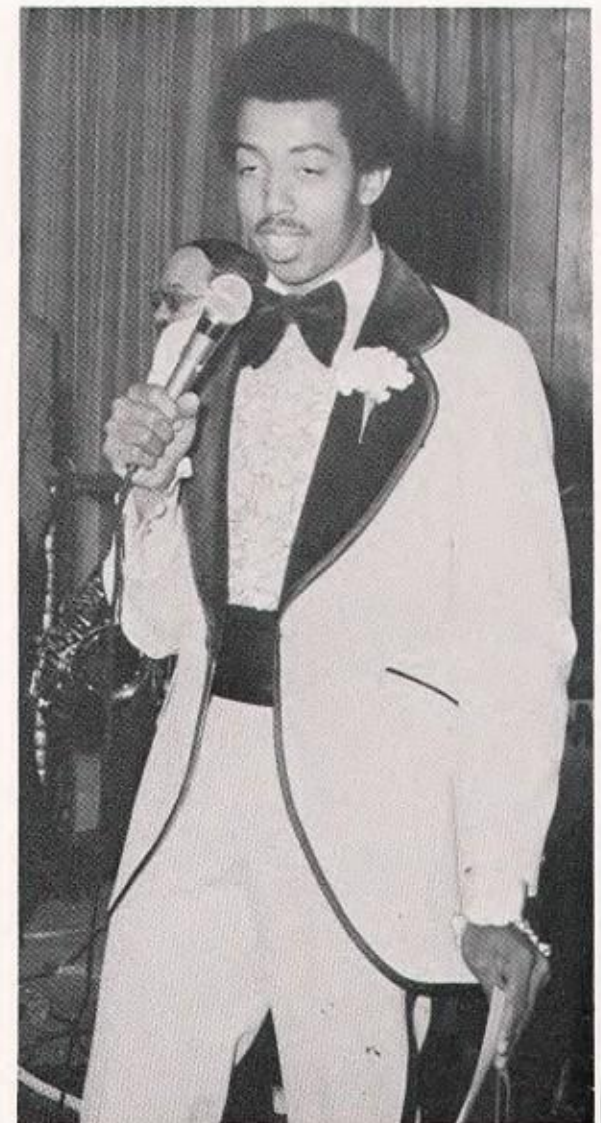

The prom is one of the things that students look forward to most in the spring. This year, the prom was held at the Elwood Country Club in Elwood. Master of Ceremonies was junior Doug Mitchell while The Larry Mechem band provided the music. Refreshments at the prom consisted of punch and nuts. The highlight of the evening was the announcement of Debbie Lively as the 1974 prom queen.

The after-prom activities were held at the Lucky Strike Bowling Alley, also in Elwood. Bowling, cards, pool, and table games were activities offered. Several drawings for prizes were held and everyone won at least one prize. Also, snacks were served.

Seniors examine current events in NATIONAL OBSERVER

Mr. Jenkins' Government classes, for the first year subscribed to the National Observer newspaper, and discussed current events. His Econ classes talked about the economy of the U.S., discussed Watergate and the causes of inflation and depression. Mrs. Wiseman's Recent U.S. History class studied the political and social levels of the early and mid-nineteen hundreds. Students in World and U.S. History class discussed political and economical affairs of yesterday and today. Mr. Renner's Soc students took polls for statistics and discussed social problems of our country. Psychology students learned all about themselves by taking personality tests.

Mr. Renner's Soc class seems to be industriously studying for the next day's assignment.

Above: After one of Mr. Jenkins' difficult tests, Susan Marcum can't bear to look as she turns in her test and hopes for a high grade.

Right: Mr. Jenkins discusses the importance of knowing the foundation of our government and the Constitution to seniors.

Math courses interest and challenge students

Math is important to everyone whether college-bound or job hunting. The math courses offered this year were general math, Algebra I and II, geometry, trigonometry, analytic geometry, and calculus. General math students were refreshed with the basic skills while higher fundamentals of algebra and geometry were studied by others. Trigonometry students advanced skills learned earlier in geometry and applied them when using trigonometric functions. Further knowledge was applied by students in analytic geometry classes and new concepts were brought out in the one pupil calculus class.

Staring, smiling, and studying seem to be the pastimes of students waiting for the bell to ring in general math class.

In English, some sit & stare while others study.

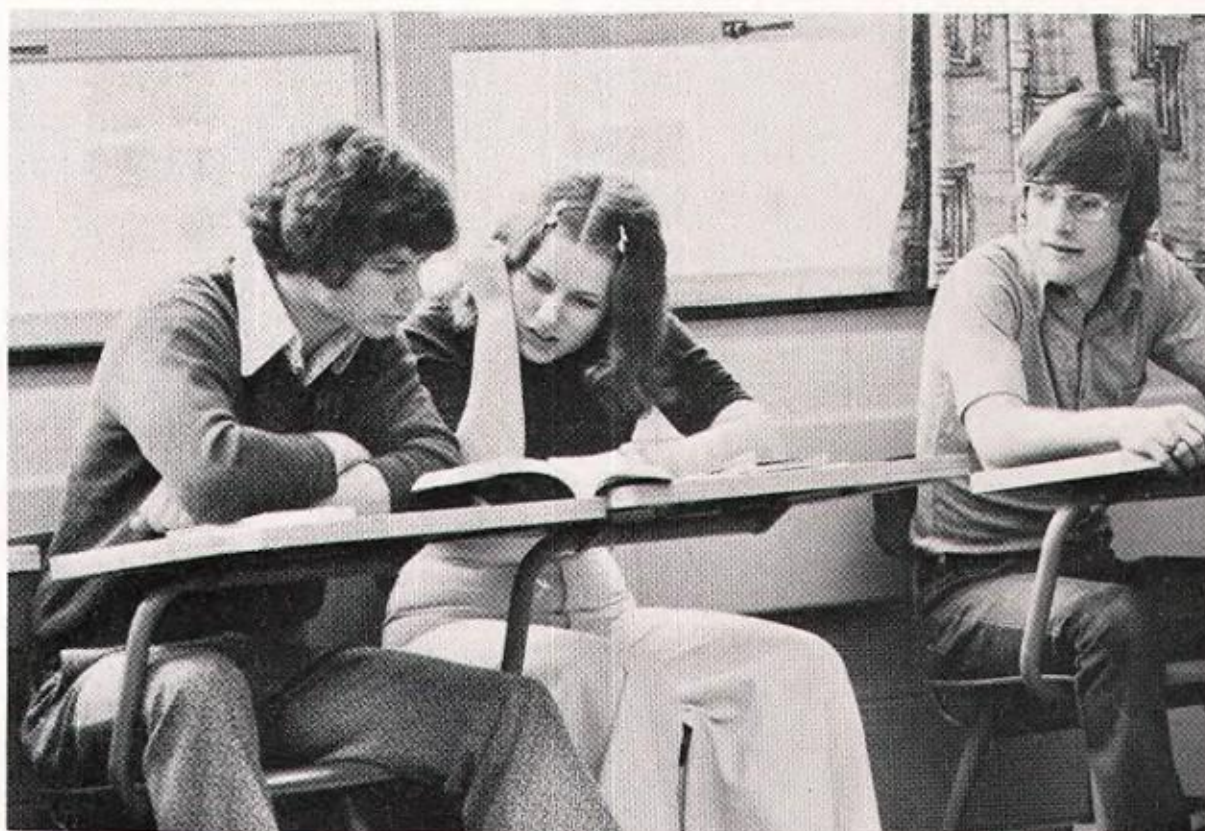

This year the English Dept. changed from a strict separation of grammar and literature to a combined form of the two. Paperback supplementary books provided variety and unusual material for all classes. Two new members to the department were Mrs. Barnes in journalism, and Mrs. Davis in speech.

The speech class found the year exciting, studying persuasive speeches, theater history, and acting. The Students did improvisations, took surveys, learned to direct plays, and enacted scenes from "Andorcles and the Lion" and "The Silver Cord."

Senior English students find group discussions helpful in understanding difficult essays; small informal classes made this possible.

It seems as though English amazes Mitch Morrow and Teresa Holloway.

Showing enthusiasm for class Mike Waltz wears his sombrero and places a pinata to decorate the class.

Students learn to speak a second language

The Spanish department expanded by adding a third year course to first and second year classes. Sizes of classes ranged from five students in the third year class to nineteen students in first year class. The students attempted to learn to translate stories and express themselves in Spanish.

First and second year Latin students learned Christmas carols, Latin derivations and helped with the "Chariot race" during the J.C.L. formal initiation. Three J.C.L. members furthered their studies with a trip to Italy. They viewed Roman ruins and could attend church services at the Vatican on Easter Sunday.

Mrs. Dunn "points out" the techniques of the Latin Language to her first year students.

During Spanish initiation day Eric Eisenhower and Lois Cady wear miniature sombreros and smiles.

Band gets new director and earns new uniforms

New uniforms, new ideas, new band directors, and new music were all present this year in the Marching Huskie Band. After holding a street fair and several paper drives, the band bought sixty new brown and orange uniforms.

Along with their new uniforms, the band had a new band director, Mr. Robert Liddil. He taught the band how to put on a good performance on the football field and the importance of teamwork especially while working with the junior high elementary bands at the Spring Fling.

Chorus entertains community and school

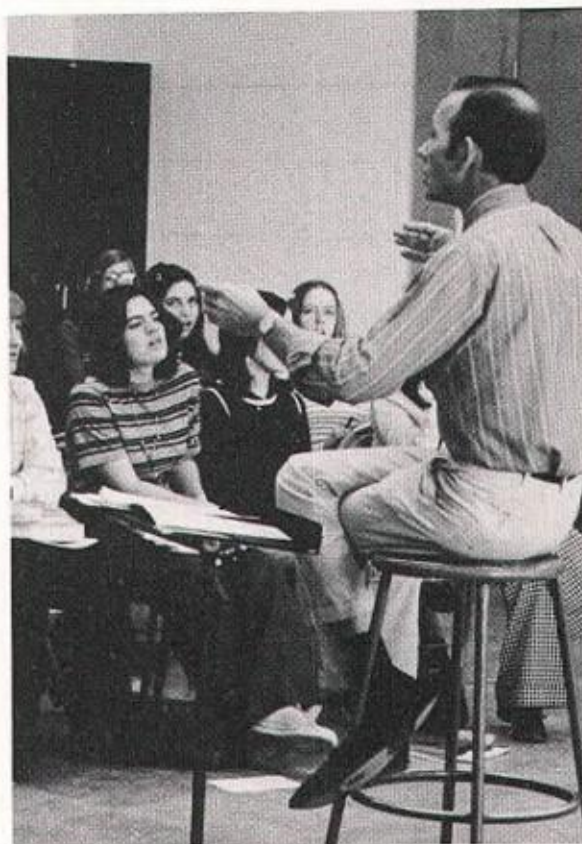

"What do you mean I'm off key? My mom says I have a great voice and that I'm never off key. You are off your rocker."

Hamilton Heights High School chorus is definitely not off key when it comes time for performances. The chorus performed at the Christmas concert, Spring Fling, Lions Club, Arcadia Christian Church, and the Ladies' Auxiliary. Several chorus members also represented Heights at the Annual Indiana State Music Contest at Ball State University in Muncie.

Mr. Liddil, the new chorus teacher, finds that teaching these choir members offers many challenges.

Kate Liddil, Janis Challis and Sue Algood sing out in chorus class as the male section in the background looks on enthusiastically.

Hardwork and fun combine to make HERITAGE

Fun, gray hairs, deadlines, cokes, and high blood pressure were all part of working on the 1973-74 Heritage Staff. Not only did they learn how a yearbook was put together but they also learned to plan layouts, to write body copy and to write captions. As with the newspaper editor, the editors of the Heritage attended workshops at Ball State where they learned of their responsibilities in the making of a yearbook. The 1972-73 Heritage won two 1st placings and an honorable mention in a contest it entered at the Wabash Valley Press Conference.

Newspaper staff earns credit with 15 issues

Ever try putting a newspaper together when the staff is more interested in the radio or roaming the halls? That's what the new advisor had to cope with. The beginning of the year found them with new ideas and sellings ads to local merchants for this year's Aitch Aitch. The rush of meeting deadlines, the writing up of "beats" were all forgotten when the publications came out. This year some staff members attended the Wabash Valley Press Conference in Terre Haute where Susan Hart won a 3rd place rating for her sports write-ups.

Ag class broadens students' understanding of the soil

Observing safety rules during welding class, Mitch Morrow and Max Alvarez are equipped with gloves and goggles for their protection.

Vocational Agriculture-Business is designed for any boy or girl who is interested in any phase of Agri-Business. They can choose from conservation, horticulture, landscaping, forestry, veterinary, food processing, agriculture teaching, agriculture careers, and agriculture production, or take the course just to learn the basic understanding of the world's largest industry-Agriculture Business. Other categories for freshmen and sophomores are woodworking, welding, soils, and electricity. Junior and senior ag includes mechanics, concret and metal work, weed and insect control, marketing systems, landscaping, and conservation of plants.

Mark Kennett measures his project in drafting class.

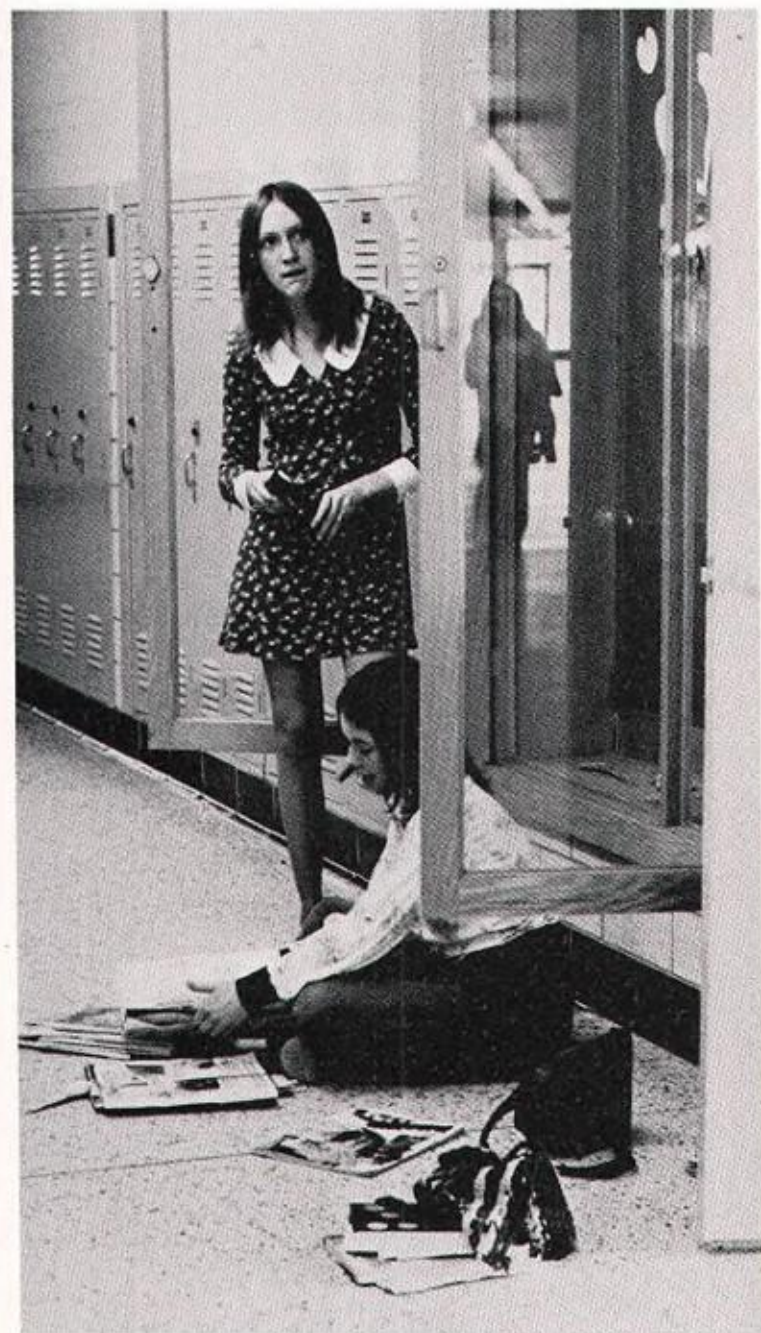

Pam Leeman and Leann Hill learn how to change a tire in case of emergency.

Home Ec Classes split into local and national FHA

Every girl, even those at Hamilton Heights probably someday will be wives of leisure and labor. Preparing their future as well as using their skills now, take time and practice, as girls in the home ec classes have learned. They've learned to cook, sew, plan their own kitchens, and homes along with its furnishings, and color combinations, designs, and patterns. They also learned the many problems and joys of child care. These girls who chose to take home ec intend to take pride in their homes and families, and have feelings of accomplishment in their efforts.

Students become involved

Student Council took on new responsibilities

The 1973-74 Hamilton Heights Student Congress was composed of the Senate-3 members from each high school class and the House—a representative from each sixth period class. The 32-member Congress kept extremely busy.

They began the year by organizing the annual Homecoming events. Any activity planned during the football week had to pass through Congress.

Second on their agenda was to charter any new clubs. Three were chartered this year: Art, Media, Love Is, and Quill and Scroll was rechartered. At the end of each year every club was evaluated by the minutes they turned in and member evaluations. The club evaluation sheets determine the amount of money allotted to each one.

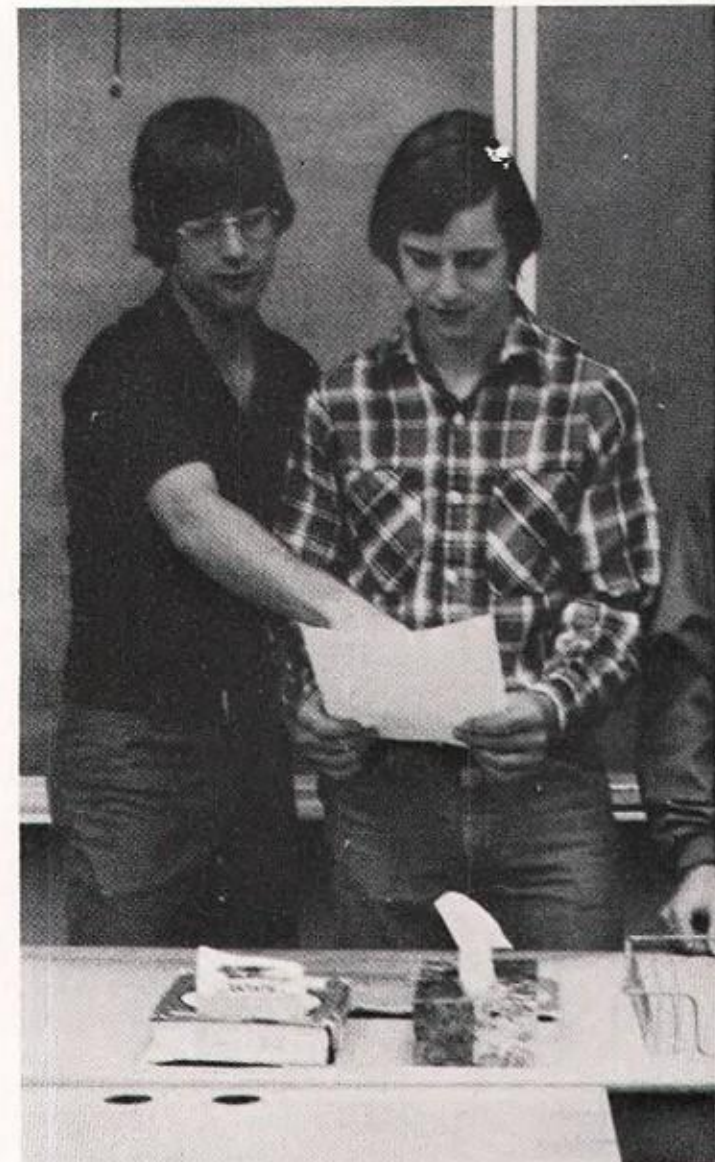

They ended their hectic year by electing new officers.

Honor Society sets standards for student body

The National Honor Society began the year's activities with the annual Homecoming bake sale. The Society also sponsored a Christmas "rock concert" featuring a jazz band composed of past and present students of BSU. The club donated money to the Children's Homes in Cicero and in the spring, presented its annual induction of new members, followed by a short reception for all members, their parents, and faculty. All Honor Society members must maintain at least a 90 average and possess qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, and service. Pete Kerfoot and Susan Marcum were the two seniors chosen to apply for $1000 scholarships to the college of their choice.

New Honor Society members listen attentively as senior, Brian Wise gives the Society's oath that they are about to repeat.

Monica Eisenhower proudly accepts a rose as part of becoming a member in the National Honor Society.

FTA member, Pam Blackford, as a teacher's aid at Arcadia Elementary, reads about Harriet Tubman to her fifth grade students.

Kim Kaiser, senior FTA member, helps Mrs. Hoch's kindergarten class prepare for the Valentine's Day Party.

Helping with Career Day and "taking" over a class in the elementary were just a few of the many activities the FTA members participated in this year. Whether it was crazy kindergarten or wild sixth graders, there was plenty of action and a lot of valuable learning experience. Not only that, second semester found FTA with two new officers and a teacher's view of absenteeism among pupils. With all the challenges, aggravations, triumphs, and defeats of playing teachers, many FTA members agree that it isn't easy, but it is rewarding. All in all it was an educational experience.

Quill and Scroll, the International Honorary Society for high school journalists, was rechartered at Hamilton Heights. In its first year of reorganization Quill and Scroll honored its initiates with pins during graduation exercises and presented three non-members achievement awards earlier in the spring. As a purely honorary organization Quill and Scroll recognized scholarship and leadership within scholastic journalism at Heights.

Math club stimulated students' interests in math by presenting challenging mathematical tricks and games. With the help of Mrs. Mary Emily Wood, Math club sponsored the State Math Contest for accelerated students.

Charismatic Drama club expresses through action

Drama Club started the year off with a Homecoming skit shaming the Shamrocks and ended the year with the humorous play "The Mouse That Roared." And the in-between wasn't bad either as "Harvey" hit Heights with a burst of excitement. The mysterious and invisible rabbit caused many headaches for Elwood P. Dowd and his family.

Presenting a skit at Sectional time with the setting of the television show "Hee Haw" the Drama Club displayed their ability to boost school spirit.

The Drama Club kept busy most of the year with plays and skits. Nevertheless, the members of the organization still found time to express their appreciation to Mrs. Davis, by giving her roses. Mrs. Davis was as proud of the members as they were of her.

Mrs. Davis, in a moment of confusion, pauses to decide what to do next in preparation for "The Mouse That Roared."

National and local FHA breaks down into classes

The FHA began the year with the initiation of its new members. The club sponsored a tea on Valentine's Day for the faculty. In the spring, members collected for the Muscular Dystrophy Fund.

The FFA had a busy year with numerous activities. The club had Dairy and Livestock Judging teams and sold fruit and seeds. In the fall, Bill Roudebush, Bob Jay, and Bill Costomiris went to Kansas City for the FFA convention. They also made trash barrels for the football field and county fair, took a field trip to the Farm Progressive Show, and participated in the district leadership training. At Christmas, they gave two cases of fruit to the County Home and $10 to the Retarded Children's Fund. During National FFA week, members of the club distributed trash bags and gave pens to the faculty members. Five members attended a workshop at Purdue University in the spring.

Love Is makes start; Art club sees Anderson museum

Sponsoring an Easter convocation in April was the highlight for the new Love Is Club. Trying to create enthusiasm for the club, holding regular monthly meetings, studying the Bible, spreading God's word and fulfilling a need within themselves, the members of the new Love Is club, along with sponsors, Mr. Mike Jenkins and Mr. Gene Pitts, had a very rewarding school year.

This year the Art Club did some decorative painting for the Golden Oak Turkey Parlor, an antique shop which sells turkey sandwiches. This adventure proved to be an outlet for their creative talent as well as a service for the community. In addition to creating art, the club went to Anderson College Museum to observe student paintings and modern art. Posting signs of monthly meetings, making posters showing school spirit, decorating the art room walls, the art club displayed their ability to fellow students.

Business club enjoys speaker, picnic, & party

Business Club had an interesting year under the direction of Mrs. Hiatt. They invited a guest speaker, Mrs. Kim Coomer, who spoke on various business careers. At Christmas, they enjoyed a party and in the spring, a picnic at Forest Park ended a busy year.

Since French was dropped this year by the department, only two foreign language clubs remained. Latin Club, headed by Mrs. Dunn, staged its yearly initiation with new members wearing tunics to class and held a formal initiation at night with parents invited.

The other foreign language club, the Spanish Club, brightened its year with a Christmas party, climaxed when Jeff Eller broke a pinata filled with candy. In the spring, they also arranged an initiation followed by a party at Mrs. Stoner's home.

Northern Lites place first at summer camp

To begin the year off, the color corps changed their title to the Northern Lites. Under the direction of their choreographer, Mrs. Ann Woodruff, the corps performed an unusual torch routine at the football pregames.

The corps attended a majorette and drill team camp last summer at the University of Dayton, in Ohio. In the majorette division, the corps won first place in overall competition for a large school; they received a trophy. They learned dance and twirling routines.

The Northern Lites performed at the pregames and half-time of the football and basketball games. They appeared with the band in the Carmel and Noblesville Christmas parades. They traveled to Cambridge City to perform a torch routine for their homecoming.

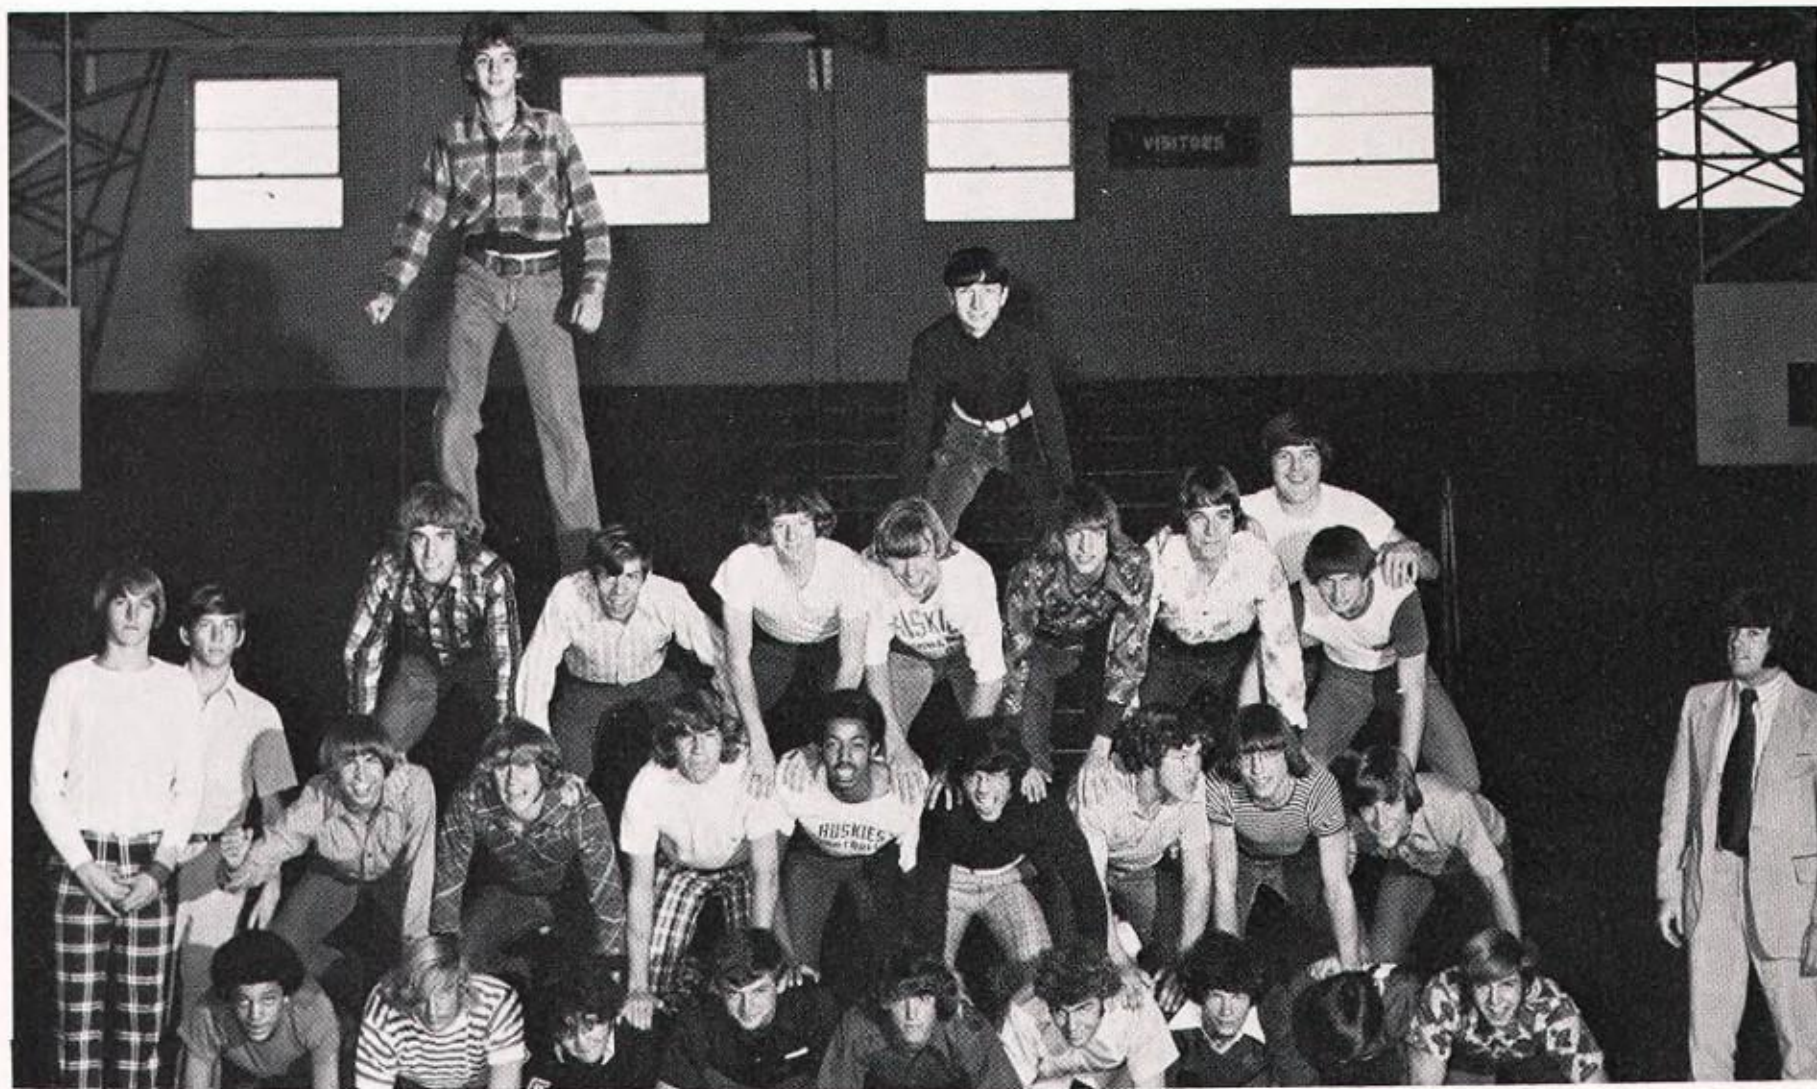

Northern Lites members, Dee Meyerrose and Ann Hartley perform to the music, "The Lion Sleeps Tonight," at Heights' Homecoming.

H-Club began the 73-74 school year by having a hayride in November for anyone who wanted to come. It was a money-making project, so there was a small charge for admission. Activities for the evening included a hayride to Beck's, a weinie roast, straw and marshmallow fights; tragedy struck when Sherry Flanders caught her pants on fire and Mike Miller ran into a barbed wire fence. In March, the H-Club sponsored a basketball game between the senior boys and the men faculty, in which the faculty won by one point. It was another money-making project. Besides paying for the weight machine in the training room, the members helped raise school spirit by making a victory circle around the players and building a pyramid, both at the sectional pep rally.

Jeff Gunn strains to get in shape with the help of the weight machine proving that time, sweat, and determination are all part of an athlete's life.

Candy Strippers work at Riverview Hospital

After three months of rigorous training, the Candy Strippers graduated from class and went to work at Riverview Hospital in Noblesville. They put in an average of ten hours a week performing various tasks such as making beds and feeding patients. Mrs. Ruby Cook instructed the Candy Strippers until they were thoroughly prepared to start working in the hospital.

Office assistants proved to be very helpful as they took care of the tedious but needed tasks of collecting attendances, recopying schedules, figuring class ranks, and running errands.

CANDY STRIPERS: Scott Miller is being examined by three Candy Strippers: Susan Tharp, Lois Cady, and Sheila Morrison.

Wear & tear on backs—All part of cafeteria

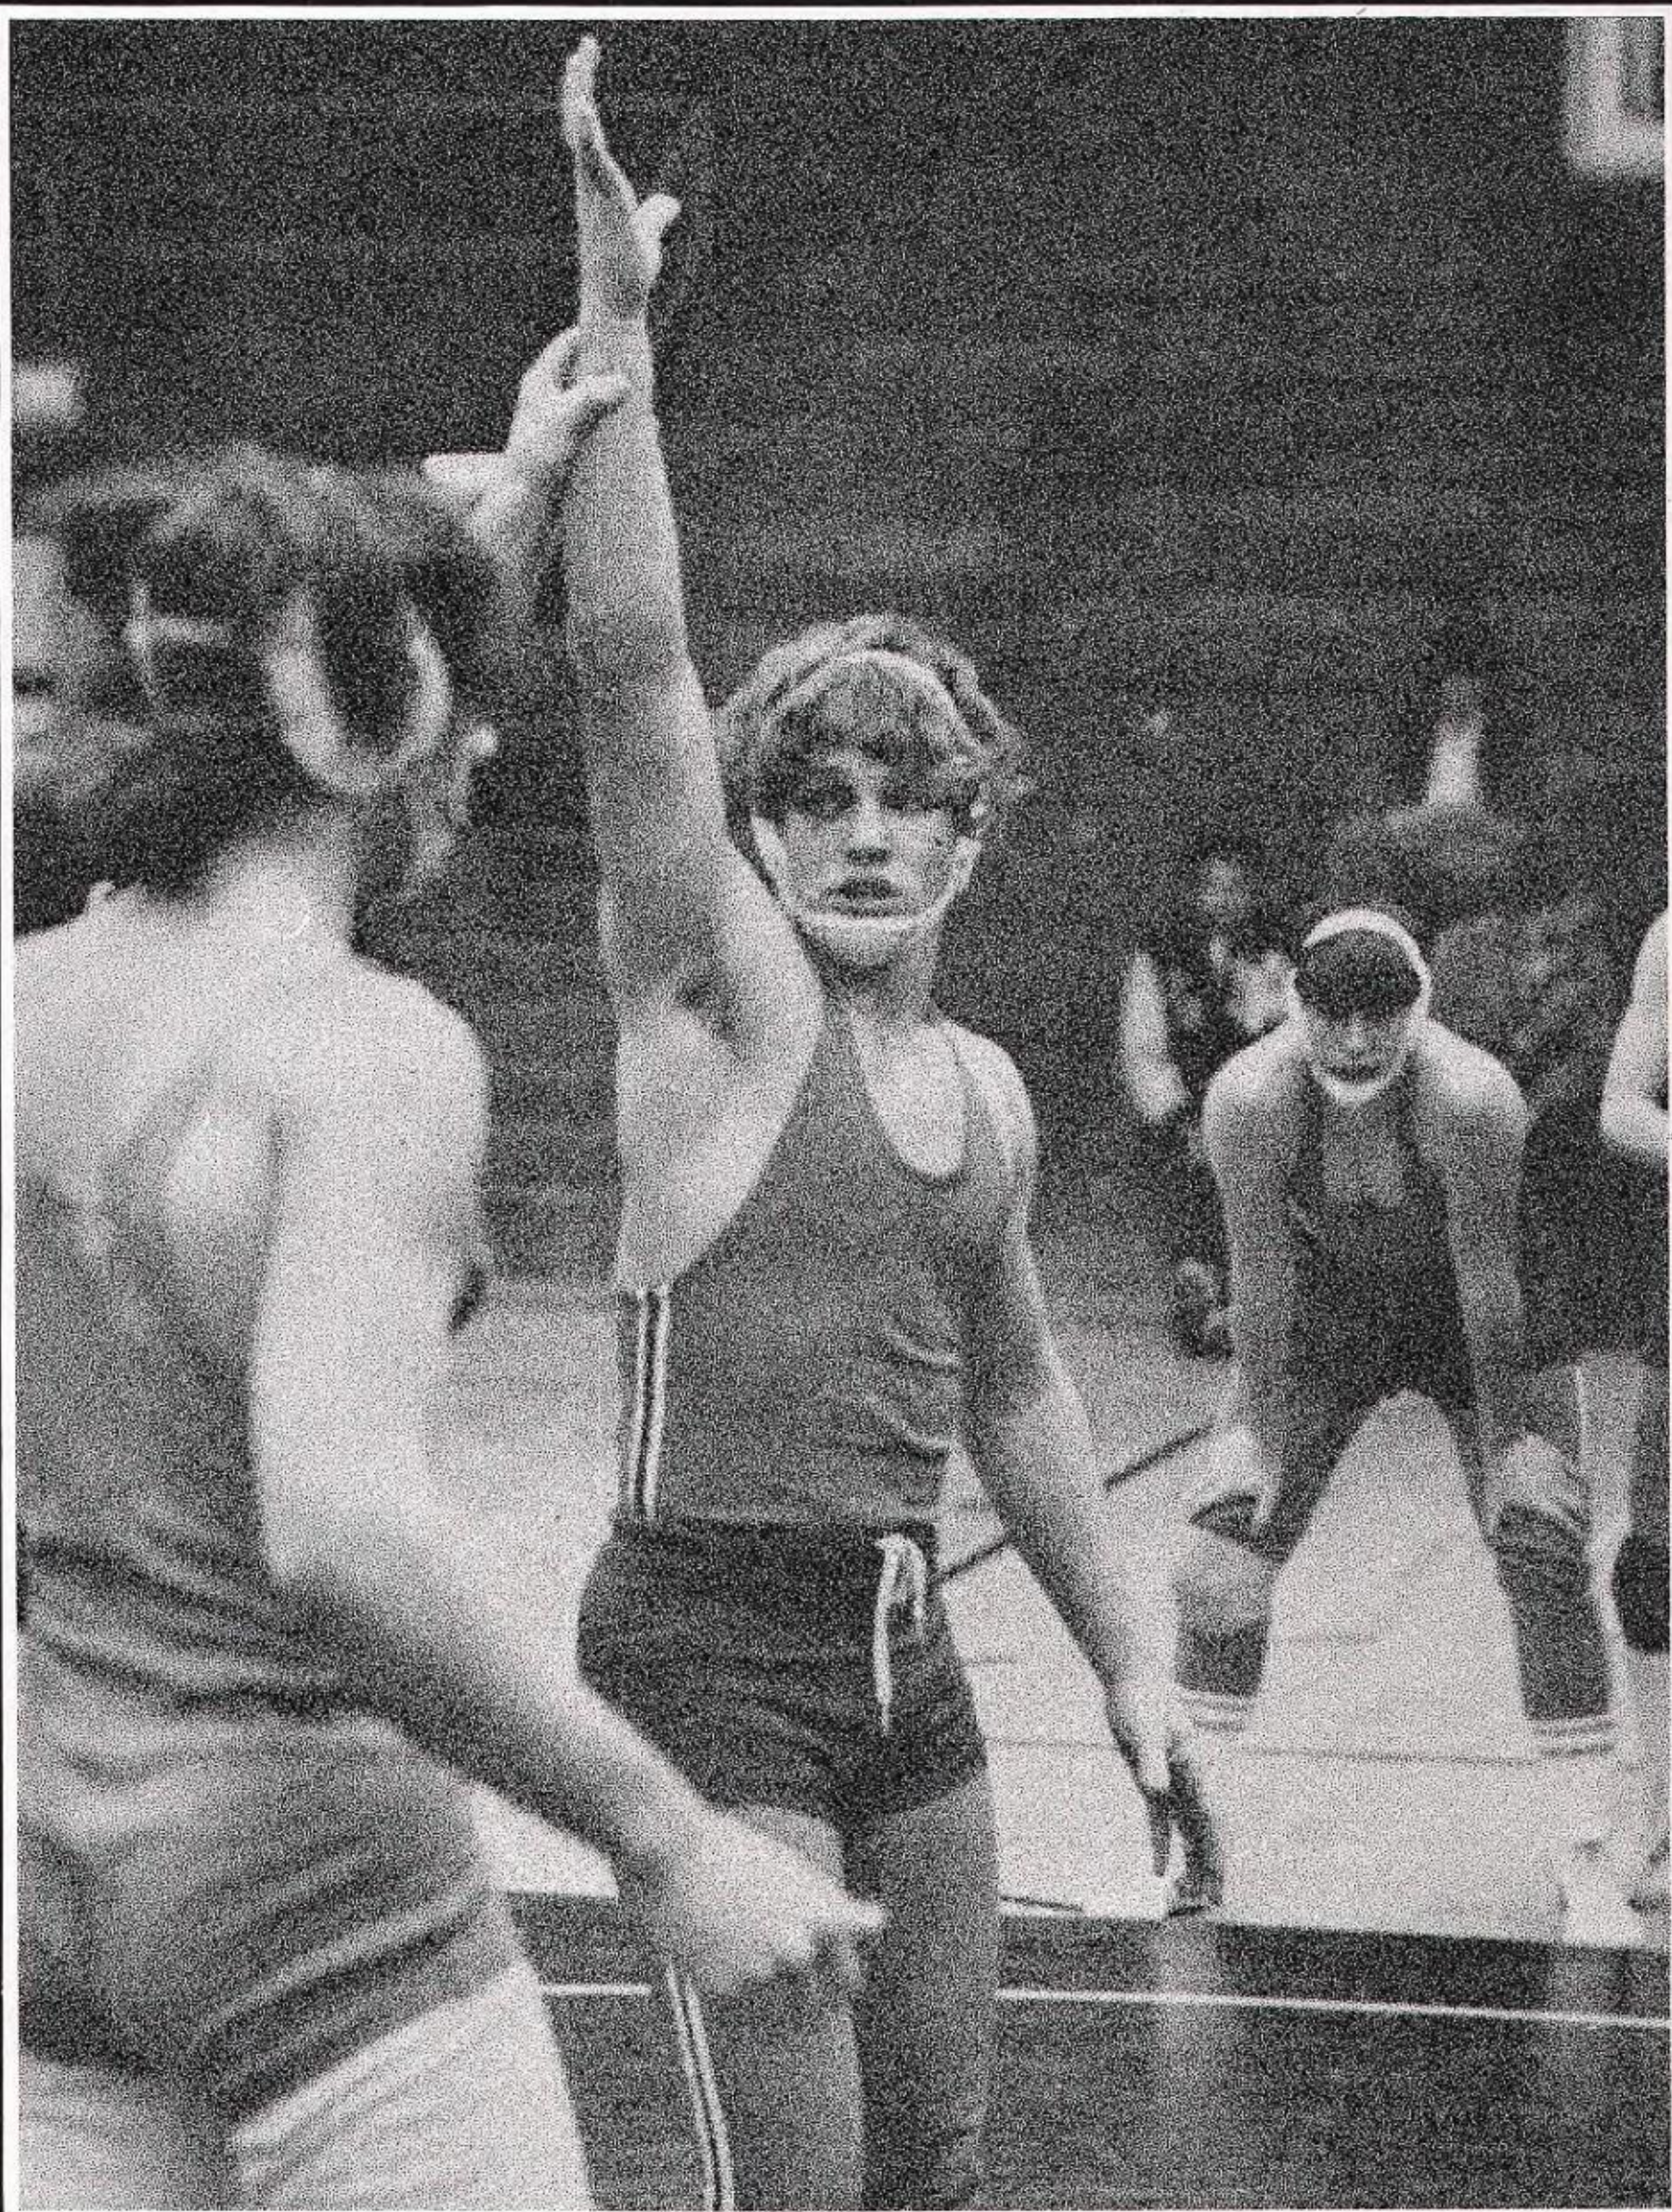

Picking up trays, wiping up messes, sampling food, and suffering through bowl day are all part of the duties of the cafeteria staff. Looking forward to each day and its happenings are also a part of it, not to mention the food and the pay day at the end of the week.

Checking in books, running errands, reading shelves, and other numerous jobs are part of a library assistant's daily routine. Mrs. Rulon showed the assistants how to use the audio-visual equipment, so they could assist the faculty. The assistants took advantage of this by making FLIP-Fun in learning Incentive Package. The assistants also learned how to process new books before they were placed on the shelves.

Cheerleaders back the Huskies to winning seasons

Through all the excitement, suspense, and thrills of victory, there are those who have helped put the spirit into the hearts of many Husky fans the Cheerleaders. They've screamed and yelled their lungs out, leading their teams on to victories. They've put in hours of practice after school preparing for skits and pep sessions. This year they attended camp at Vincennes University. They learned new yells, pom-pom routines, new jumps and stunts. Both squads received outstanding and excellent ribbons in competition. This year Debbie Knapp made the all-county cheerleading squad. Bonnie Moore received an honorable mention. Miss Marianne Julius was the cheerleaders' sponsor.

Homecoming shines through as Husky football players and cheerleaders show their respect for the American flag during out national anthem.

Class of '74 enters into their final year

During the last four years the class of '74 has seen a lot of changes ranging from lunches to the dress code. As freshmen pants were unheard of, but now students can even wear blue jeans. For years lunch had to be bought as an entire meal, but now there is an ala carte line in the cafeteria. This year the seniors were able to graduate mid-term and also gain credit with work experience while attending only required classes. They prepared themselves to enter the outside world; some took college entrance exams while others got on-the-job training.

Seniors helped the yearbook staff by selling HERITAGE subscriptions. In the fall, several seniors participated in the play, HARVEY. This year's seniors will be the second class to have their graduation exercises outside.

During the Homecoming tug-of-war, the Seniors defy anyone who would pull them into the pit.

The class of '74 proved that they believed in Women's Lib by electing a staff of all girls: Sue Henderson, President; Kim Kaiser, Vice-President; Pam Kaiser, Secretary; and Susan Marcum, Treasurer.

One-hundred two graduates go their separate ways

Graduation exercises for the 1974 seniors was held Sunday, May 19, 1974. Baccalaureate and commencement were joined to make one ceremony. Due to the rain, it was held in the school gymnasium instead of on the football field as planned. Valedictorian, Bev Hiday, and salutatorian, Chinita House, gave the Invocation and Benediction. Rev. Richard McQuinn gave the Baccalaureate address after the band played the prelude. Mr. Modlin presented the awards and scholarship winners were recognized. Mr. Hohnstreiter distributed the diplomas. The seniors then changed over their tassels as they were announced graduates of 1974. Ron Carey and Beth Southard were the junior escorts.

Juniors worked diligently toward their senior trip,

The Juniors were actively engrossed in many money-making projects toward their senior trip. Among their financial projects were a Chili supper during Homecoming, Christmas candle sales, and ballgame concessions. During the fall, time out was taken for PSAT and SAT tests for entering college. In the spring, the Juniors felt signs of spring fever, perfecting their parts for their play, "The Mouse That Roared." They anxiously worked on a successful Junior-Senior Prom. All of the activities were supervised by their sponsors: Mr. Gene Pitts and Mrs. Sally Stoner.

The Sophomores began their second year in high school,

The 1973-74 school year proved to be exciting and busy for the Sophomore class. Selling magazines, taking achievement tests, and choosing elective courses highlighted the year. With the help of their class sponsors, Miss Connie Anderson and Mr. Mike Cook, the sophomores placed third in the float competition for Homecoming.

Thoughts of their Freshman year still lingered as they laughed at this year's Freshmen trying to adjust to high school. Sophomores' spirit rose as some made varsity squads and joined upperclassmen's clubs. The boys outnumbered the girls and the class tended to be a little rowdy.

The Sophomore class officers for the 1973-74 school year are: President, Paula Long; Vice-President, Joyce Knapp; Secretary, Sheila Moran; and Treasurer, Jayne Knapp.

Huskies capture RLC All-Sports title

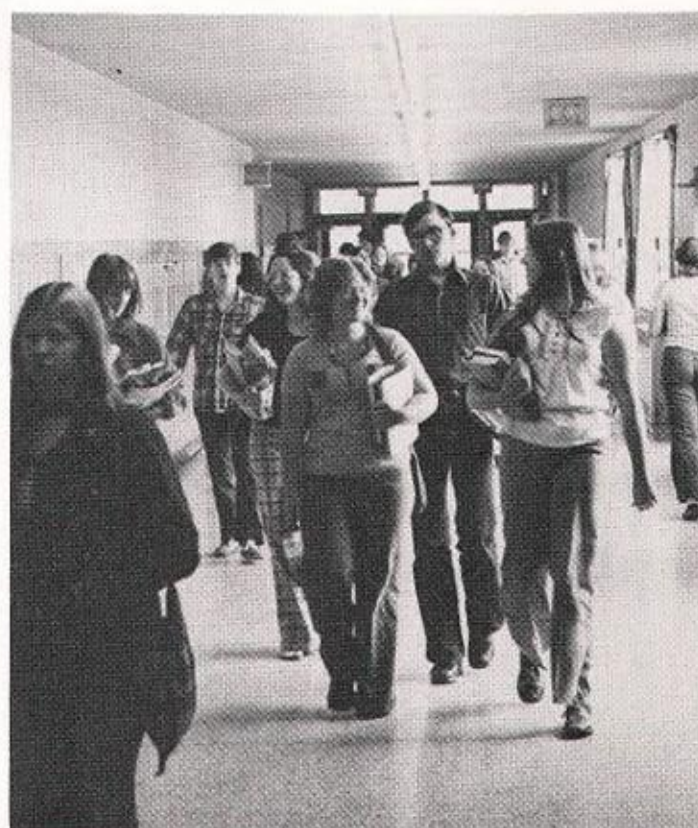

Golf's MVP, Randy Fulhart, ponders before putting.

Phys. ed. students abound with spirit when the class goes outside.

Joe Day and Chinita House converse roundtable style in senior English.

Right: Students slow down the pace to class as the afternoons grow warm.

Left: The Marching Huskies provide the beat for a Homecoming victory.

Although our school is comparatively small, we've made the news with some rather large issues. Making the state playoffs in football, and being victorious over several teams before meeting our defeat is a lot to be proud of. We've done miraculously well in other sports such as basketball, wrestling, and track. Certain members of our school have done equally well, such as being a member of an all-state team, or winning scholarships to various colleges or vocational schools.

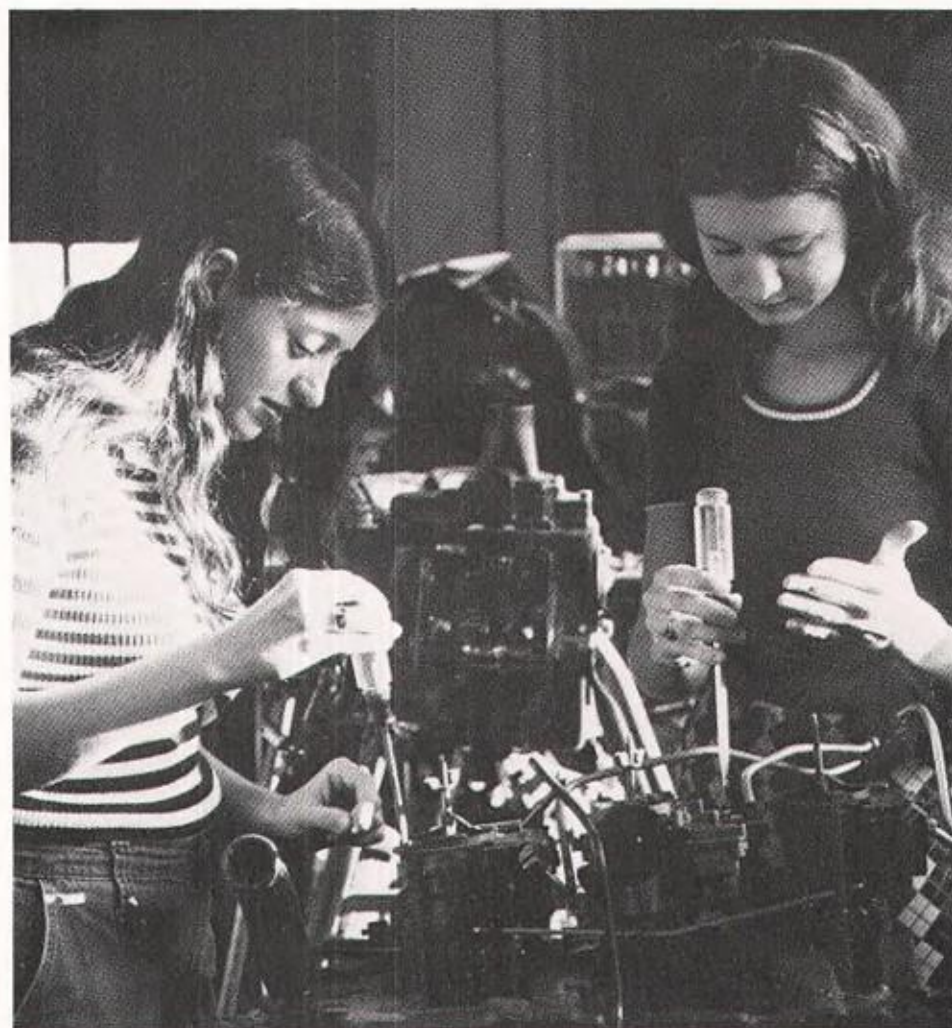

We may never become as diplomatic as Henry Kissinger or as well liked as Robert Redford, but we have a lot of potential in our school and it makes us realize that the size of a school really has no meaning at all: not to . . .
